Q: How to simplify the loop part in SAS? I have a data set with the variables from 1 to N and the year from 2000 to 2013. Is it possible to have a data set that only contains the variables 1, 2,..., n, and the variable year (without replicating 2001, 2002, 2003, 2004, etc.)? A: In SAS 9.2 and later, you can use PROC PRINT to create a table that includes all of the variables that you want to print: data _null_; proc print data=null nway; var x1-xN year; run; proc print data=null nway; title 'Here's a table of all the variables'; run; Proc PRINT also has a nway option to do a table per group if you want: proc print data=null nway; var x1-xN year; nway; title 'Here's a table of all the variables'; run; If your data is a bit smaller, using a dynamic get is another option, though it's less powerful than proc print: data _null_; set your_data_set; id+1; run; data _null_; set your_data_set; by id; do until(last.id); var a-year; length var long; var=id; end; title 'Here's a table of all the variables'; if _n_ = 1 then do; var=id; end; run; Note that the by syntax means you need to use the by option in your call to proc print when you do it for this purpose. Finally, you can do what @dan mentioned and use a macro to generate the table. This is the most straightforward method and is the easiest to read. Depending on how big your data set is, it will

I think it's a shame that this game is not one of the best in the new FF genre. But it's still an amazing game. Gameplay is mostly the same and is excellent. Storyline is very different from the previous game. However, it's enjoyable and unique. I like the idea that the pre-game period is connected to the main storyline. The game world itself seems very detailed too. Well, overall this is a very good game. First off, the graphics are amazing. The music and voice acting is pretty good as well. The story is very different as well from the previous game. I personally found it a bit hard to grasp at first because there is alot of changes, but after having played it a bit, I liked it a lot more. It's challenging, especially in multiplayer. You have to work together with other players to defeat enemies. Which is a nice addition, especially in co-op. You can play solo, but the main story isn't enjoyable without other players. Multiplayer allows you to feel the presence of others. The game also has an online aspect to it, where you can directly connect with others. Which is nice. Overall, the game is good. It's unique and has good graphics and unique gameplay. It's very challenging, but it's very good in multiplayer. My Grandmother's Kamehameha. This is my review/critique of the new FF RPG, Rise of Tarnished, which is published by ATLUS and is available on both the PlayStation®Network (PSN) and Xbox LIVE® Arcade (XBLA) services. This is a 1-5 scale review with a 4 being neutral. 5 being a perfect score. Please be aware that the review below may be a little lengthy. General Overview The story: The plot of this game centers around the tale of four siblings. In the past, long ago, an old man created a world called the Lands

Between in order to break the constant cycle of life and death that takes place in the world. A monster monster called a Troll attacked the city of Elden, the king of the kingdom at that time. The king was killed and his children were transported to the Lands Between. There, they meet a troll named Uraraka, a blue-haired child who, similar to herself, is also born in this world. Q: Test automation tool for chrome which continuously runs in background In my application I have separate processes running along with chrome browser. So my requirement is to continuously run my test cases in background within chrome browser while user is browsing my application. I tried using Babysr.io but it ends quickly and can not be run in background. I also tried using background.js but execution gets killed fast. Can anyone please suggest what is the best and long term solution for this as it has to run continuously. A: As we (Selenium and chromedriver team) talked in the description of chromedriver, you can configure it by DesiredCapabilities caps = DesiredCapabilities.chrome(); caps.setCapability(CapabilityType.BROWSER_NAME, "chrome"); WebDriver driver = new RemoteWebDriver(new URL(""), caps);
